

... always think a fish weighs more than it actually does.

FREE DELIVERY AS MILLION — Talks about a new fish. The Game and Fish Commission has compiled the totals of fishes delivered between July 1, 1964, to June 30, 1965 — and they come to a whopping 63 million.

Through a reciprocal agreement with the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife (a division of the U. S. Department of the Interior), the Game and Fish Commission's Fisheries Division delivers surplus fish from the National Fish Hatcheries at Lyman, Tripelo, and Meridian to county seats all over the state. Neither the commission nor the federal agency charges for this service — one only has to put in a request for fish to stock ponds, lake, or stream and then pick them up at the county seat at the appointed time.

Seems to me it has been a long time since our streams were restocked. Why don't our local gun and rod clubs get busy and get some of these free fish for our section. Some of our streams like Jordan River, Rotten Bayou and Bayou LaCroux could stand some restocking.

The great majority of the fish go to private waters, though some fish are used to restock waters that have been restored after having been polluted. Just to make the anglers' mouths water, here is a breakdown by species of that grand total: blue gill — 47,717,000; largemouth bass — 1,993,093; redear sunfish — 1,994,300; and channel catfish — 1,157,245. That will put some action into rods and bamboo poles.

FALL FISHING — From the Tennessee line all the way into the Gulf of Mexico, Mississippi fishes are taking the bait. "Way up on Pickwick Lake, which we share with the volunteer State, the crappies are losing their freedom. And at nearby Lake Lee, the happy anglers are hauling in the bass. Over to the east, the striped bass are bidding for the fryin' pan, thanks to an unusually good spawn this year. Sardis sends its usual — "plenty of good-sized crappie," which is dotted by the nocturnal anglers on the Ross Barnett Reservoir. Filtering north from Hurricane Betsy's playground are reports of good speckled trout fishing. Winter is on its way; but from one end of the state to the other, anglers can tell you that the fish don't know it.

Thanksgiving weekend should be a long one. Hunters and fishermen are planning some good trips and the fish will be in the ice box while game and waterfowl will fall before a barrage of lead.

Guessing? It's never the same — telling how much a fish weighed dressed compared to what he weighed crashed to the forest floor, you can guess; some even go to the trouble of weighing a bothersome portable.

Goodness, someone has worked out a chart of approximate weights, based on the size of the dressed out animal. It is circulating among conservation agencies, which are passing the word on to the public.

... rabbit, turkey, deer, and game all about. Game is arriving and the market should furnish some good hunting. Game that has been killed are 21st century to be sold otherwise. This is the first year that the season opened so early and hunters are taking advantage of it.

IT'S LEGAL — It's all an angry rumor, and the person who started it has something against fishermen. We knew it wasn't true; but just to be safe, we asked Game and Fish Director Jim Caraway. So, here is the official word on night fishing — "Yes, it is legal, and I wish more people knew that for sure."

To add icing to the cake, Chief of Fisheries, Barry Freeman, pointed out that the flocks of night fishermen on the Barnett Reservoir can not harm the fish population that, in fact, there will be a surplus of fish in the new lake for a year or two to come.

Don't think our local fishermen go out for night fishing too much, may be we should try it. We're never too old to learn.

DUCK BANDING HELP — A man works 12 hours a day, sloping around in waders; get blasted around the face and arms by the wings of irate fowl; and then finds that his pickup has become completely mired down during that soggy day — whatever for? So he can find out that a blue-winged teal banded in Mississippi in April of 1963 was shot in Venezuela in February of 1965 and that another duck completely switched-flays having been banded in Mississippi in October of 1963 and killed in Washington state in the Pacific Flyway in November of 1964.

Is the man daff? — Nope, he's just a career game biologist banded a duck banding program, one that will continue until duck season opens the first of December. The first flights came in the middle of October, including the earliest flight of mallards to arrive in the state since the duck depression began in 1959. This year's trapping program has put anklets on 125 mallards on Sardis Waterfowl Refuge, 348 wood ducks and 50 mallards on Grenada Waterfowl Refuge, and 25 mallards on Delta Stream Electric Lake near Cleveland.

The bands carry a Fish and Wildlife Service return address, from which the hunter information is sent back to the states. Hunters killing a banded fowl are asked to send the band number along with the date killed and location to the address imprinted on the band.

Electric trolling motors will be awarded for the largest Red Fish, Blue Fish, Flounder, Sheepshead, and Pompano caught during the entire Rodeo. Four free deepsea fishing trips will be awarded to the King Fisherman and Queen Fisherman, in and out of the county. This is awarded to the people who constantly turn in daily winners during the entire Rodeo and have the most points awarded to them. The trips have been donated to the Rodeo courtesy of local boat captains. A special prize will be awarded for the largest Speckled Trout caught in the entire Rodeo this year, but the prize will be kept a secret until the week of the Rodeo.

The headquarters for the Rodeo again this year will be the Gulf Shores Community House, located one-half mile south of the Intercoastal Waterway on the east side of Highway 59. The Foley-Gulf Shores Jaycees, sponsors of this Rodeo, cordially invite everyone to attend this event. For further information, anyone may contact the Foley-Gulf Shores Jaycees, Box 228, Foley, Alabama, 36535.

Did you sportsmen know that a knife and hatchet can be as important on a camping trip as a head light or any other light. They come in handy for making fires, cleaning game and fish, take care of them. Keep them clean and sharp. A dull knife or hatchet is more dangerous than a sharp one. Learn how to use them.

Would you believe that there is a lot of skill in catching black bass both small and large mouths. They are a package of dynamite surrounded by scales. Catching the bigger basses, requires a knowledge of their nature, a study of a few weaknesses. Sometimes they hit a fast moving bait and sometimes a slow moving bait according to what they are feeding on. Usually they stay in protected places and in tree tops which protect them from gars. For best results cast a good way from the boat, especially if the water is clear.

GAL THREE hunt and fish. In cold weather, bass hit under-water baits best. Strike as soon as the fish strikes, then set the hook and hang on. There will be a thrill in store for you. Practice casting, it pays off in the long run.

The weather for the past few weeks has been so warm that frogs have been on the banks of bayous and ponds. Won't see any when it turns cold.

For those who like duck calling the first clinic in geese and duck calling was held last Thursday at the Nord Cast dock in the rear of City Park in New Orleans. The N. O. Sportsmen's League as a built up to its Club Championship duck and goose calling contest on Friday, November 26. Anyone can enter this contest. If you think you are good at duck calling enter the contest, you may surprise yourself and many others. There are a lot of amateur duck callers who scare the ducks instead of calling them into the blind. Remember, practice makes perfect.

NORMAN COMPRETTA

Norman is another one of those guys who hasn't time to go fishing and hunting as he would like to. Once a year he goes on a dove hunting trip with his friends. As a fisherman I don't think he is much, but as a cook, when cooking any kind of game, he can't be beat. He cooks meat-balls and spaghetti out of this world. Getting off cooking, he is just a small fellow with hundreds of friends from here and elsewhere.

We dare not forget that when our forefathers celebrated the first Thanksgiving Day they weren't at all sure that their meager harvest would be adequate to sustain the little community through a long hard winter. About all they could give God was thanks!

Gratitude for our blessings in time of abundance discovers a new dimension. We can become partners with the Almighty in His mighty aims.

For the very reason in which Christians give thanks to their Lord is the season in which they plan their stewardship—their support of the Church's continuing work.

If you are a church member, demonstrate your thanksgiving in earnest commitment to your congregation's spiritual opportunity. If you are not a church member, express your thanksgiving by discovering your own spiritual opportunity.

Spiritual dedication is about the only life resource of which we do not have more than we absolutely need!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
